

Quality Policy

At A2SEA, we are committed to practising good quality.

Good quality is essential, if we are to remain a successful company and an attractive service provider to our customers.

The following principles constitute a fixed framework, commitments and expectations to the way we manage quality and collaborate at A2SEA:

- We do the right things; right, the first time and we do not repeat failures.
- We build strong relations to our customers by clarifying, understanding and meeting their expectations and requirements and ensuring strong and profitable solutions.
- We are all responsible for the quality of our works and we know that quality cannot be delegated. It is everyone's responsibility.
- We aim to achieve and maintain a strong and proactive quality culture.
- We are powered by know-how; and by continually improving our working processes and services, we maintain a strong market position.

"We will continually work proactively and smart to ensure that our service and deliverables are highly attractive to our customers and that our work brings strong value to A2SEA, our colleagues, customers and ourselves."

Fredericia, September 2017

Michael Glavind, CEO